

Investorside Research Association Elects New Chairman

Members Hear of Challenges and Opportunities Ahead

(New York City, June 24, 2011) – The Investorside Research Association elected David Good as Chairman and re-elected all other board members at its June board meeting. In addition, Laurence Herman joined the board. Mr. Good is the CFO of CreditSights, Inc. and has served on the association’s board for 4 years. He succeeds Richard Leggett, chairman and CEO of Business Intelligence Advisors.

Good was previously senior vice president at MacKay Gardner Capital Partners. From 1999 to 2002, he served as senior vice president at Instinet, where he was responsible for executing M&A activities and a portfolio of financial services venture investments such as WR Hambrecht, Archipelago and Starmine, while directing business development efforts and leading the company's initial public offering in 2001. As a vice president at Citibank's asset-backed securities group in London, he originated, structured, and executed ABS transactions. He previously worked at GE Capital in Connecticut and London. Mr. Good received a JD from the University of Virginia, and a Bachelor of Arts from Yale University.

“I’m extremely pleased to hand over the chairmanship and the gavel to David,” said Leggett. “He’s incredibly knowledgeable about our industry and our client base, and is very thoughtful and diligent when dealing with difficult situations and difficult matters. So, I think for this next chapter in our history, his savvy and strategic thinking, especially when applied to areas of policy and regulatory affairs, put us in very good hands.”

Upon accepting the chairmanship Good thanked the membership and Leggett for his past service and then spoke of the challenges and opportunities facing the organization.

“We have a lot to work on because of some of the regulatory issues in Washington as well as the increased scrutiny surrounding some types of research, so it’s a challenging time, but it’s also an exciting time for us,” said Good. “Although our members have very different businesses, we all have a lot in common, including the opportunities before us. So I’m looking forward to working with the members to achieve our common goals.”

Mr. Herman, Investorside’s new board member, is general counsel and managing director of Gerson Lehrman Group. He previously practiced law at Cahill Gordon & Reindel and was senior vice president of operations for Capital IQ, Inc. He worked in strategic development for Delphi Capital, working with the firm's affiliated fund of funds and hedge funds, insurance companies and other investment projects. Laurence received a BA from Williams College and earned a JD from the University of Chicago.

The Investorside Research Association seeks to increase investor and pensioner trust in the U.S. capital markets system through the promotion and use of investment research that is financially aligned with investor interests. The organization has approximately 90 members involved in the daily activities of analyzing and reporting on publicly-held companies.
